Airfare, Housing & Transportation

AIRFARE

Employers cover the inbound flight costs for the workers at employers discretion.

HOUSING

The worker will pay for their own housing costs; the employer must arrange for safe, clean and furnished housing for the workers. This housing must be offered at a reasonable cost.

GROUND TRANSPORTATION

An employer must provide transportation to and from the worksite at a reasonable cost to the worker. Many employers provide a vehicle for the workers to use for buying groceries and running personal errands for the first 3 months.

OVERVIEW:

Included in our agreement with you:

- ✓ Conducting worker interviews.
- ✓ Signing of work contracts.
- ✓ Discussions with employer about best employment practices.
- ✓ Advising your staff on worker transportation issues, to and from Mexico.
- ✓ 3A provides your workers with a Spanish-speaking point of contact to help them adjust to living in the United States.

COST PER WORKER:

- 1 $1500 retainer payment, don't mention whether or not its refundable.
- 2 $2500 fee once worker has been working for a week.
- 3 $2500 fee after 180 days.

NOTE: Additional fees may include law firm fees for TN paperwork (estimated at $2500), and USCIS fees for consulate appointment and 3 year visa (estimated at $500).

90 DAY GUARANTEE:

If an original recruit quits or is fired within the first 90 days of work, we will replace them without charge.

Sarah Wyngaard

Owner

Sarah comes from an H-2B background and owns a US law firm that specializes in immigration.

Fed-up with the 'H-2B cap' and the increasing number of hoops that business owners needed to jump through in order to get the seasonal workers they so desperately need, she founded 3 Amigos Recruiting Agency.

For every problem there is a solution!

What it all comes down to:

Your time is valuable. What would you do if you didn't have to scramble each year to find optimal employees? You could instead spend time growing your business and sleep better at night.

Our mission is to use our combined experience to connect great organizations with great individuals. Your success is the primary goal of our company.
